

SUNWAY COLLEGE

Conducts Seminar For School Teachers And Counsellors

As part of the Sunway College community services to schools, a one-day seminar on 'Schooling and Disaffection from School' was organised by the College for the school teachers and counsellors from Klang Valley. The seminar was also part of the on-going series of professional development programmes for Sunway College academic staff.

Three research-based papers were presented by Professor Dr Maznah bt. Ismail, Professor of Education, School of Educational Studies at Universiti Sains Malaysia and Dr Tan Toh Wah, Academic Director of Sunway College. The three papers, "Meaning of Schooling to Me", "Student-at-Risk: "Disengagement/ Disaffection from School" and "Zero or Hero?" Understanding Disciplinary Problems amongst some male students during their transition from School to Work", triggered off very lively discussions between the participants and presenters.

To add value to the seminar and in line with the IT-age, the academic staff from the College's School of IT and Multimedia conducted demonstrations on PC Maintenance and Web page Designing for the participants.
